Governments and NGO's subscribe to the principles of good governance in order to move forward and attain the goal of righteous and beneficial public welfare. In Islam the crucial added factor is that tasks must be executed in a manner that pleases Allah Almighty best.

Paradoxically we are confronted daily by news of binges of fraud and conspicuous corruption at various levels of Government and the private sector. From civil servants, crooked cops, politicians, tenderpreneurs, tax dodgers, financial advisers and to company directors, the tidal wave of fraud and corruption has even swept up to the highest office in the land.

Corruption is Haraam: an infernal curse that eats away at the moral fibre of a nation. By outrageous abuse of power and pure greed, the corrupt elite bereft of any sense of ethics and morality, rob the poorest of the poor. Islam prohibits all forms of corruption and has a zero tolerance on officials accepting bribes. “The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) cursed the one who offers the bribe and the one who receives it.” (Tirmidhi, Abu Dawud, Ahmad, Bayhaqi)

It has been profoundly stated that the only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing. The world is in peril from those who tolerate or encourage evil than from those who actually commit it. At SANHA, we fully endorse the principles of transparency and accountability for good governance. Therefore, we are delighted in welcoming our distinguished guest speaker to address the AGM.

MR MOHAMMED MAHOMEDY

A member of the Transnet Board of Directors. He is tasked with the stewardship of Transnet, which has a revenue of approximately R75 billion and asset value over R335 billion. Prior to this he was the Chief Financial Officer of Transnet Group Capital, a division of Transnet SOC Limited. His key responsibilities include financial management, project cost reviews and controls which account for approximately R 3bn per annum and operating expenditure management and optimization of R 1,5bn.

More importantly, his courageous stance against corruption as testified at the Zondo Commission of Inquiry into State Capture serves as inspiration for the upholding of Islamic governance of the highest ethical standards. Click here to view
