

Many a column has carried detailed information on the month of Ramadaan and its excellence where Allah Subhanahu wa ta'ala displays immense mercy upon those wishing to benefit from it.

And many articles too will report on the trials and tribulation of the Muslims who collectively undertook the regimen of fasting, additional prayers, increased acts of charity and time for serious introspection with the objective of emerging a better individual than yesterday.

Therefore Eid is the proverbial icing on the cake and leaves one with a deeper sense of gratitude towards the Almighty.

It follows then that it is only natural for all who had devoted themselves to this worship to express joy collectively for the world to witness how they had been favoured by Allah.

Let us literally light up our surroundings with love from attending the Eid prayers, the family get together and meeting the neighbours. Let us make a conscious effort to entertain those who are not in a position to due to illness and poverty and most importantly, let us forgive each other, clean the slate and face the forthcoming year with determination to contribute to a better year ahead.

The SANHA family of it certified plants, members, Executive, Management and staff wish all Muslim Eid Mubarak and fellow South Africans peace and prosperity.
